SUBJECT: Pacific Climate Change Roundtable – Save the Date Announcement

Dear Members & Partners,

It is a great pleasure for me to announce that this year's Pacific Climate Change Roundtable (PCCR) meeting will be held in Nadi, Fiji, during the week of July 1st – 5th, 2013.

The PCCR is a bi-annual meeting of regional and national governments, organisations, partners and donors who are responsible and involved in climate change. It is the premier forum in our region to share ideas on climate change and to ensure coordination in support of Pacific Island Countries and Territories (PICTs) efforts on climate change. The 2013 PCCR will be held in conjunction with the Pacific Meteorological Council and will be followed by a Joint Meeting of the PCCR and Pacific Platform for DRM (commonly known as the Pacific Road-Map meeting).

The PCCR will be held during the week of July 1-5th. Exact days and the venue will be communicated to you as soon as a draft programme is developed. Conference participants are then invited to stay on, in Nadi, for the Pacific RoadMap meeting, which will be held in Denerau, Fiji from the 8 to 11 of July.

Please note that limited side event slots will be made available at the PCCR, which will provide opportunities for showcasing relevant climate change programmes. Organisations wishing to host a side event should register their interest no later than Friday March 29th 2013, via an email to Joyce Tulua (joycet@sprep.org).

All information relating to the PCCR, as it becomes available, will be posted on the Pacific Climate Change Portal website, at www.pacificclimatechange.net/index.php/pccr

Focal points and partners are invited at this stage to please note these dates, for this key regional climate change meeting. Additional information will also be circulated in later circulars.

Yours sincerely,

David Sheppard
